Description
The web preview in chat is a great feature. This great feature would be made even better if the size of the web preview's pop-up box could be configured in Quassel's settings. For me it would be perfect to make the window at least twice it's current size so that content can be read in the preview.

3rded. The scaling could also be done at higher quality which would make text easier to read. Currently it looks like it's using nearest neighbor.
